AMERICANS TO LEAVE

Train, Guarded by Troops, to Haul Trapped Group to Valencia on Coast

MADRID, July 28.—(UP)—Government and rebel armies, nearing exhaustion after days of constant fighting, attacked and counter attacked in the mountains north of the capital today.

A slowing pace on both sides indicated the possibility, even the likelihood, of a stalemate in which for some days neither might gain a decisive advantage in the Madrid area.

The rebels, hurled back by the loyalists in a series of fierce mountain clashes, have succeeded, apparently, in reforming their lines after attack.

Government forces seemed still to hold the initiative all over the north.

Urgent appeals for assistance broadcast again and again over the radio from Seville—the chief rebel center in the far south, pointed to a desperate situation there despite rebel sorties on Malaga, on the southeast coast.

Early Victory Forgotten

Predictions of early victory for the rebels ceased, and Gen. Gonzalo Quipio de Liano, commander in chief in the south, appealed instead to all rebel sympathizers to join him—including those he said were "hiding in idleness" in Gibraltar.

He appealed also for arms from the British, German and Italian governments, to be delivered to the Seville area.

Gen. Emilio Mola, the rebel commander in chief in the north, seemed to have succeeded in withdrawing his men to new base lines, while the rebel advance guards continued the fight for Guadarrama mountain passes commanding Madrid.

It was believed that he has concentrated his greatest force and has entrenched it for a long defense if necessary, in the region of the ancient walled city of Medina-celi, once a Moorish stronghold, 95 miles northeast of Madrid on the road to Zaragoza, the rebel northeastern center which government troops are nearing.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP)—The state department hurried plans for evacuation today of 160 Americans in the U. S. Embassy at Madrid as rebels were reported.

CLEVELAND, July 28.—(UP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey today joined the efforts of Cleveland police, newspapers and neighbors of Carlton B. Chilton to save him from being returned to Oklahoma for a crime committed 23 years ago.

Davey said Oklahoma would have to present a "strong" case before he would grant extradition.

Chilton's life story—the story of an upright life for 23 years—will go to Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma today.

THREE AIRPLANE FLIGHTS PLANNED OVER ATLANTIC

NEW YORK, July 28.—(UP)—Preparations for three transatlantic airplane flights were being made here today. All are scheduled to start within a month.

Joseph Costa, Corning, N. Y. pilot, arrived at Roosevelt field yesterday from Buffalo, N. Y. His father John Costa, a retired railroad engineer, will accompany young Costa on a flight to Portugal which will be non-stop from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

Two Swedish pilots, Karl Bjorkvall and Baroness Eva V. Blixen-flooye, plan to take off from Floyd Bennett field in a month for a non-stop flight to Stockholm, Sweden. Both are residents of Stockholm.

Clyde Pangborn, one of the few living persons who have made airplane flights around the world, is equipping his monoplane at Red Bank, N. J., for a flight from New York to Paris. Monty Mason of Los Angeles, Calif., will accompany him.

FLEEING GUNMEN KIDNAP AUTOIST

Michigan Police Chief Shot by Unidentified Pair

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., July 28.—(UP)—State police blockaded all highways in western Michigan today when an alarm was broadcast that two unidentified men had kidnapped Everett Stedman, 20, at Fennville, after shooting the chief of police of Zeeland, near Holland.

The two men commandeered Stedman's automobile at Fennville at 5:30 a. m., when their own machine was abandoned.

The officer was Fred Bosma, 37, Zeeland police chief, who was critically wounded when he sought to question the two suspects.

Bosma was rushed to Blodgett hospital at Grand Rapids, where he was treated for a serious head wound.

The trail of the fleeing men was lost in the vicinity of Fennville shortly after state police found the abandoned car.

All automobiles were being stopped near South Haven while officers sought to find Stedman and the two men.

It was not learned immediately what Bosma had sought to question the men about.

It was learned at Grand Rapids that Bosma had seen the men early this morning. He thought they acted suspicious and when he sought to question them they fled.

He followed in a police car. One of the suspects fired at Bosma, the bullet striking the policeman in the mouth, coming out through the jaw.

Bosma continued the pursuit into Holland, where he sounded his siren to attract officers there. Then he collapsed and Holland police took up the chase.

Ordinance Passed Under Rules' Suspension for Garbage Collection

TO OPERATE AT ONCE

$400 to be Paid for Hauling From All City Institutions During Year

Circleville will have a regular system of garbage collection in operation within a few days.

Councilmen at a special meeting Monday night, approved the proposition offered by Allen Thornton, Montclair avenue. They passed an ordinance under suspension of rules making a contract with Mr. Thornton. They appropriated $400 as the city's share in the program.

Under the contract Mr. Thornton agreed to collect garbage from cities and he presented statistics showing costs. The $400 is for the service offered the city, he explained, and does not mean garbage will be collected from persons who refuse to pay the collection rates.

Residents are not required to take part in the program, Mr. Thornton explained. They may dispose of their garbage as they wish. The program does not affect persons who collect garbage free of charge in some sections of the city.

For Year's Time

The contract with Mr. Thornton is for one year and if the program proves satisfactory it may be renewed for four years.

Councilmen held a lengthy recess session to discuss the program. One of the major points discussed was the legality of such a plan.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, told councilmen there was little law on city garbage collection contracts, but he believed the program offered by Mr. Thornton would work out satisfactorily.

Mr. Thornton announced he has an option for the purchase of 16 acres of land east of the city and planned to raise hogs on the garbage.

HARGUS CREEK BRIDGE HEARING IS POSTPONED

Due to the absence of Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, the commissioners Monday afternoon continued the hearing on changing the site of the Hargus creek bridge.

The hearing was scheduled for Monday at 2 p. m. Property owners were ordered to file claims for damages for the appropriation of land for the improvement.

A new bridge with a 60-foot span and 24-foot roadway is to be constructed under WPA. The project includes relocation of the roadway.

The child is to remain with her for one month during which time the court is to determine whether Alvina is to be given back to Mrs. Sappas or returned to Mrs. Gertrude Kamber, of Camden, N. J., who "purchased" her as an infant.

Horner and Others to Criticize Acceptance Speech; National Democratic Committee Ready to Act

NEW YORK, July 28.—(UP)—With a new finance committee chairman already collecting contributions headquarters of the Democratic National committee took on the cheerful hum of a smoothly accelerating machine today.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings came from Washington to confer with Chairman James A. Farley, the national treasurer and the new finance committee chairman discussed the state of the exchequer with big smiles.

The Massachusetts state chairman predicted a Roosevelt victory in the bay state, and preparations were completed for six governors to tell the nation tonight what was wrong with Gov. Alf M. Landon's acceptance speech.

Appointment of the new finance chairman was announced by Farley late yesterday. He is Frank C. Walker, close friend and frequently advisor of President Roosevelt. James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, is honorary chairman.

CLINTONVILLE, Wis., July 28.—(UP)—Directed by a confession 2,200 miles away, a posse of 50 beat through underbrush along the Embarras river today seeking the shallow grave in which a minister's son buried his chum after shooting him "without motive or premeditation."

The body sought was that of Robert Bernstein, 24, of Janesville, missing since July 13.

In Tacoma, Wash., La Verne Marks, 19, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward V. Marks of Clintonville, gave police information regarding the killing which they telegraphed to Clintonville searchers.

Despite the explicit nature of Marks' confession, the posse was unable to immediately locate the body. Two expeditions late yesterday failed to find trace of the slaying.

FORD AND DAY TO ENTER RACE FOR CONGRESS?

Chillicothe Newspaper Says Neither Man Has Affirmed or Denied Report

Two Chillicothe men, Mayor James Ford and Attorney Louis M. Day, may become independent candidates for congress.

The Scioto Gazette of Chillicothe said Monday that reports the men would run for the office in the Eleventh Ohio congressional district were "neither affirmed nor denied."

Mr. Ford said: "You may say that I have never sought to be a candidate for congress. It is true that I have been approached to become an independent candidate, but I have as yet not given an answer 'yes' or 'no', to that request. The fact is I have not had time sufficiently to consider whether I want to make an independent run or not. And that's the way the matter stands right now."

When Mr. Day was interviewed in the Ross county common pleas court room Monday, he said that he thought he would be a candidate. Asked whether or not he was going to run independently, or on the Townsend-Lemke ticket, Mr. Day said, "that all depends. If the Lemke ticket gets properly balanced, as the efforts now being made indicate is desirable, I shall run on that ticket; but if not, I shall very probably run as an independent Democrat on a platform similar to the Townsend-Lemke platform. That is as far as the matter has progressed at this time. When the decisive time arrives I shall be in a position to take definite action regarding my candidacy."

TRI-STATE AREA HIT

Six Known Dead, Many Hurt Drought-Stricken Kansas Receives Rain

BY UNITED PRESS

Storm wreckage strewn parts of eight states today in the wake of wind, rain and lightning that killed six persons and injured 20 or more. A hurricane approached the Florida coast from the Bahamas.

The federal hurricane warning system said a tropical disturbance generated in the Bahamas yesterday was moving with increasing intensity toward southern Florida and might reach there Wednesday night.

Yesterday's storms killed three in the Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia tri-state area, flattened trees, buildings and telegraph poles in Louisiana, Missouri and Kansas, and washed out rail lines and drowned a man on the Arizona-California border, where the others had been killed by a 48-hour storm previously.

MIAMI, Fla., July 28.—(UP)—The federal hurricane warning system advised residents of the south Florida coast today to prepare within 50 hours for arrival of a tropical disturbance of nearly hurricane force advancing toward the mainland from the Bahamas.

Fort Pierce—Key West

Unable to determine definitely the storm's course, the warning system ordered storm warnings hoisted from Fort Pierce to Key West. There was a possibility that the wind would strike in the Florida Keys where approximately 475 persons were killed and the liner Dixie stranded on a reef in the hurricane of last Labor Day.

The Florida coast will experience squally conditions by midday it was predicted.

A special bulletin from the federal hurricane warning system placed the storm at 5 a. m. (EST) about 140 miles east-southeast of Miami. The speed of its movement was increasing.

The northern section of Andros Island, largest of the Bahama group, on which few persons live, was feeling the storm at that time, the warning system advised.

An earlier advisory said the storm is moving about eight miles an hour in a west-northwesterly direction.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 26.—(UP)—Tornadoes, lightning and rain killed three persons, injured 20 or more and did $500,000 or more of damage.

The charge on which Leasure was fined and sentenced was filed by Howard Younkun, Scioto township, and resulted from a collision on Scioto street, Saturday night, previous to the Pershon accident.

Oklahoma Votes In Runoff
Primary; Townsendsites
Aids Marland

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 28. (UP)—Rep. Josh Lee, Oklahoma's "boy orator" and Gov. E. W. Marland, one time multimillionaire, were pitted against each other today in a runoff primary race for the U. S. senate Democratic nomination.

Lee, who led Marland by 46,000 votes in the first primary July 7, was expected to win by a sizeable margin. The eloquent Lee, former elocution teacher, closed his campaign in a flood of oratory.

Charges of political activity among WPA employees were flung by both camps as the bitter campaign ended. Gov. Marland went into the runoff with the support of Gomer Smith, Townsendsite who ran third in the earlier primary in which the blind senator T. P. Gore ran a bad fourth. Smith urged his followers to flock to the support of Marland, who is an ardent New Dealer.

Both Lee and Marland campaigned on a promise of upholding the administration, as did Smith, who tacked on the Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension program. Gore stumped against the New Deal.

Herbert K. Hyde, prosecutor of the Urschel kidnapers, won the Republican senatorial nomination without opposition and will meet the candidate chosen today in the November elections. Hyde is now a practicing lawyer.

WPA FIELD ENGINEER ASKS OFFICIALS TO START COURTHOUSE PROJECT

TARLTON WORK IS ASKED, TOO, BY COURTRIGHT

U. S. Share of Expense for County Work $10,565; 40 Persons to Get Jobs

Application for release of the courthouse repair project and a new project for improvements along Salt creek at Tarlton were filed with the Chillicothe WPA office Monday by Vattier Court-right, field engineer.

The start of the courthouse project is expected soon. The project received presidential approval many months ago. It includes repairs and repainting of window frames and sashes, walls and ceilings, revarnishing fixtures, doors and casing and pointing the stone walls. Federal funds are listed at $10,565 and the county's share $800.

Would Employ 40

The application explains no work has been done on the building in many years. Improvements are needed. The project would furnish employment to 40 persons over a period of four months.

The project for Tarlton includes cleaning out, straightening and widening the creek channel for a distance of 1,320 feet and repairing the banks at curves. Federal expense is $14,480 and the county's share $6,175. The stream improvements are badly needed to prevent the creek from cutting under the abutment of the new bridge. The project will be forwarded to Washington. It will furnish employment to 50 men for five months.

Few Ohio communities will be better represented at this year's fair than Pickaway county.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR NAME FOR NEW PLANE

A "Mystery Plane," reported to be radical in design and which promises to be faster than any landplane ever flown, is now being built by Commander Frank Hawks, world-famous aviator and holder of over 200 speed records. The new air racer is especially designed according to the ideas of Commander Hawks, who is personally supervising its construction under secrecy. He will endeavor to not only break all present speed records but also new ones that will stand for some time to come. As the present record for landplanes is in excess of 350 miles per hour, the new plane will be literally a "flying bullet".

Since the very essence of all speed, particularly in flying, is the element of time, it is but natural that The Gruen Watch Company, Cincinnati, O., should cooperate with Commander Hawks and the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics in producing the fastest speed plane ever conceived.

As a preliminary to the flight, and in order that the public may have a share in this history-making venture, The Gruen Watch Company is holding a contest to name the "Mystery Plane". Twenty-eight valuable prizes, will be offered for the best name submitted.

The contest begins August 1 and ends September 15, 1936, and is open to anyone in the United States. Complete information and free Entry Blanks can be obtained at L. M. Butch, jeweler, 163 W. Main street, local Gruen dealer.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The United States Coast Guard air corps is used as the background of a motion picture for the first time in "Border Flight," action-filled drama of border warfare against smugglers, playing Tuesday and Wednesday at the Cliftona theatre.

A group of thirty trained fliers, experienced in sky-fighting and pursuit, the Coast Guard air corps has made history for its branch of government service. It stands today as one of the most dangerous and adventure-filled arms of the law.

Members of the corps cooperated in directing filming of the picture, which shows Coast Guard pilots carrying out the hazardous duties of their jobs. Central theme of the film is the battle to stamp out a group of fur smugglers.

Warfare with the band brings plane dog-fighting high above the clouds, hand-to-hand combat on the ground, and a "battle to the finish" resembling a small slice of a major war.

AT THE GRAND

Educating "Father," the second Fox film to feature that typical American family, The Jones Family, at the Grand theatre with Jed

Prouty, Shirley Deane, Dixie Dunbar, Spring Byington, Kenneth Howell, June Carlson, George Ernest, Florence Roberts and William Mahan in the featured roles.

AT THE CIRCLE

"Navy Born," Republic's screen version of Mildred Cram's Cosmopolitan Magazine story, co-starring William Gargan and Claire Dodd, is the current feature at the Circle theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story revolves around the predicament of Gargan, a bachelor naval aviator, with a two-week-old son of his dead buddy on his hands. Miss Dodd, as the infant's wealthy young aunt, creates the hilarious complications with her rapidly shifting maneuvers to locate and obtain the child.

VETERANS MEET SEPT. 20 TO 25 IN FOREST CITY

Cleveland Scene of Legion Convention; Many High-lights Planned

CLEVELAND, July 28—Making the trek from every section of the country, members of the American Legion will converge upon Cleveland Sept. 20 to 25 in record numbers for their 18th national convention.

Registrations for the colorful convalesce at this time promise an all-time peak attendance well above the 200,000 mark. Weeks away from the convention date registrations have been running three to four times heavier than at the same period in previous years.

Always picturesque, the great Legion parade, Forty and Eight procession and thrilling drum and bugle corps contests now will have for a striking background the brilliant-hued exhibition halls of the Great Lakes Exposition and Cleveland's vast stadium.

Many Drum Corps

A fortune will be represented in the value of the equipment carried by the drum and bugle corps competing here. A conservative estimate places the investment close to a million dollars.

One of the numerous reunions scheduled in connection with the convention will bring to the city probably the greatest assemblage of air heroes in American Legion history.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Maj. Jimmie Doolittle, Mayor Flora LaGuardia of New York, Capt. Orville A. Anderson, Col. William Bishop, ranking Canadian World War ace — these are but a few of the illustrious figures in World War aviation history who will attend a banquet Sunday night, Sept.

NEW SIGNS PLACED

Circleville, during the last few months, has been much interested in various means of putting the town on the map. One much needed label has been added to the marking of the town during the last week.

The Board of Trustees of the Circleville Public Library have purchased, and placed on the front of the Memorial Hall and Public Library building, a handsome bronze plaque with the plainly visible inscription — PUBLIC LIBRARY.

That the sign has been needed has been testified to by many strangers visiting the city, and now that Pickaway county has become library minded, and is enjoying the free services provided to all county residents, it will serve both as a guide and a welcome to Circleville visitors.

Recent Fiction

Two volumes of fiction, recent selections of the "Book of the Month Club", have been given to the Circleville Library by Mrs. E. L. Crist. The books are:

"Days of Wrath," by Ande Malraux — a fiery novel of a Communist prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp, his escape and later experiences.

"The House in Paris," by Elizabeth Bowen, the author of "The Hotel" — a much discussed novel of a half-a-dozen years ago.

Anderson Family

The genealogical department of the Circleville Public Library has received an interesting addition. This volume is "Anderson Family Records," which has just been published by W. P. Anderson, a Cincinnati representative of this noted Virginia family. Prof. Robert M. Anderson, of Guilford Road, has presented this book to the library.

Gifts to The Library

A number of gifts of special value to its patrons have been received recently by the Public Library.

B. K. Clapp, retired railroad, has presented a number of volumes, from his business and professional library, which much wanted information. Another gift is that of R. Noecker and consists of volumes of standard works on history and social science.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

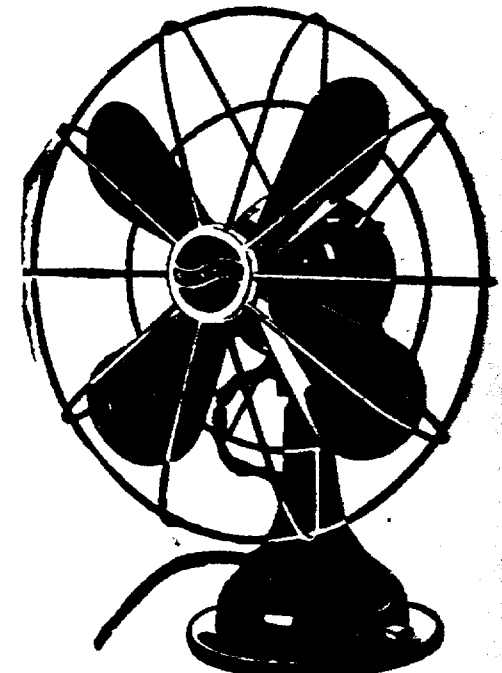

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 2 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills — which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

INCOME AND TAXES

FULLY gratifying as the increase in the national income in 1935 to a total of $52,959,000,000, almost within reach of the 1931 figure, is the reduction in disbursements from capital and surplus to the lowest point since the depression began.
The excess of $628,000,000 paid out over
what was produced, compares with $1,- 777,000,000 in 1934, $3,198,000,000 in 1933 and $8,817,000,000 in 1932.

In appraising this tremendous reduction of deficit, so to speak, weight must, of course, be given to rising value of inven-
tories through advance of prices, but it accounts for the change only in part. At the rate of improvement being made this year
there is prospect that the country may enter 1937 with income produced equaling,
if not exceeding, income paid out. The one discordant note in such contemplation is the matter of taxes. Whereas in 1929 the percentage to national income was 12.4, last year it had risen to 19.1 and with the new levies imposed it is bound to rise still higher. The net result is that with an income 65 per cent of what it was in 1929,
the actual amount paid in taxes is larger.

The income analysis made by the Commerce Department's division of economic research presents interesting comparisons,
particularly those showing employee compensation rising 7 per cent and dividends
and interest 2 per cent; employee income
receipts 70 per cent as large as 1929 and bondholder and stockholder receipts 65 per cent as large. On separating interest from dividends, however, it is found that while the bondholder is receiving 83 per cent of what he did in 1929 the stockholder is getting less than 47 per cent of what he got six years ago.

Perhaps the two factors of greatest significance are that agriculture's share of the income produced was 9.1 per cent as contrasted to 8.9 per cent in 1929 and that labor received 67 per cent of the income
paid out as against 65.6 per cent six years before. At the same time, because of the lessened income paid out, the average income of the full-time employee as compared with $1,466 in the earlier period, was $1,201, representing, however, a recovery
of 28 per cent from 1933.

While the income produced is 34 1/2 per cent under that for 1929's total of $81,000,- 000,000, the number of full-time employees, according to the bureau's figures
is only 18 1/2 per cent less. The bureau places the 1928 employed at 34,485,000 and 1935's at 28,094,000, a difference of 6,391,- 000. Here is opportunity, perhaps, for the statistician to arrive at some demonstrable
conclusion regarding the extent of the unemployable problem.

In other words, giving effect to the increase in population and other changing conditions, how many more mobs than the 34,485,000 would have of about a third of their income. Most of the great educational

DAKOTA DROUGHT REGIONS

FARGO, N. D.—It is not till you swing out west of the Twin Cities that you can catch the awful significance of the drought. In Illinois and Indiana, the mountains and hills have caught and held the rainfall, thus staving off the devastating heat.

But out beyond Minneapolis, mile after mile rolls by, the hills grow lower and lower, soon the telegraph posts disappear
and no more fences can be seen. Everywhere—just miles and miles of flat, hot fields.

In some, sheaves of wheat are stacked,
but thinner, shorter and further apart than those in the Central States. The corn, too, is shorter. It looks dusty, hot, brittle. Hardly a tree for miles around. Here and there a small grove breaks the monotony of the terrain, usually near a house.

The wells haven't dried up because of the drought, but many because they are too old and there's been no money to drill new ones. With the wells drying up, the prospect for cattle and livestock is bad.

A fire rages along the road side. The grass is so hot anything will set it off.
Often a spark from a passing locomotive
will transform a whole field of wheat into a charred, smoking, black patch on the landscape.

A woman and a small girl are trying to stamp this fire out with burlap bags. With a couple of pails of precious water from
my car, most of the blaze is extinguished.
The woman is grateful and asks me into
the house for a glass of water.

Her husband, John Moen, is blind and paralyzed. She tends the farm, does the planting and the harvesting, while her 10-year-old daughter, Eleanor, takes care of the horses and cows. They have no boys.
Mrs. Moen was born and raised on a farm

came to the Dakotas with her husband.
They have been living in North Dakota for charitable and social foundations also are dependent upon invested funds. Then there are the people who are able to carry insurance partly because of the mutual "dividends" returned by the company. The earning of these dividends is becoming more difficult.

Savings banks have much of the public
money and everybody knows how the rates
have fallen, even if all do not know the reason. Estates that are in trust specifying
"legal" securities also are having great difficulty maintaining what a few years ago would be considered only a nominal
income. There are plenty of other people who in one way or another are dependent upon interest on what is really borrowed money, so that low interest rates for government borrowing are not an unmixed
blessing, especially as taxes keep rising.

Japan and Russia now boast of extensive metropolitan subways. That would place them on an absolute parity with American civilization were it not for their rather low murder rates.

Another mysterious side of women is wearing shorts for tennis and less than that for the beach and getting all dressed up to go to bed.

Love isn't Important

Gay Elwell, check girl in a prominent Detroit club, meets a number of social elite when she fills in at a dinner party at the request of Dr. Wilson, a club member. One of them is Breck Carter, who, a few evenings later, takes her to a spookhouse and gambling house.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 7

"YOU HAVEN'T touched your drink!" Breck's voice interrupted Gay's thoughts about buying new clothes with the $100 she had just won at roulette. "I'm a mile ahead of you, already. This is mighty good Bourbon—but maybe you'd rather have Bacardi, or something?"

Gay raised her blue eyes to
his. "I don't believe I want anything, Breck."

He drained his glass, and poured
himself a straight.
"Salright with me. If a girl can't hold her liquor like a little gentleman, she's smart to leave it alone. Hate to see a girl tight,
myself. Now, with a man it's different." He leaned confidentially across the table. "I can carry a mazing quantity—never get drunk. Smiraculous!"

Gay laughed a little uneasily.
"I hope you're right, Breck."

"You're cute, Gay. I'll tell you
a secret. I'm nerbs about you.
Absolutely nerbs. You like me,
honey?"

"Of course I like you, Breck."

The quart of Bourbon was slowly and steadily disappearing. And in the same ratio, Breck's speech
grew more uncertain, his eyes
more bright.

"There's something about you
that's got me, Gay. Sure 'nough.
You've got more sex appeal in a minute, than most girls'll ever have."

He had pushed his chair back,
now, and was standing beside her.
She evaded his kiss.

"Don't please. I want to finish
this marvelous dinner."

But Breck was no longer so good-natured. He swept her into his arms and held her breathlessly close. His whispered words made her flush, angrily, and she strained
away from him, disillusioned, but not at all frightened. As she had told Jean, she felt perfectly capable of taking care of herself. No part of her responded now to Breck Carter.

A look of surprise came into Breck's face. "I don't get you,
Gay. I'm not used to this 'innocent' line. What do you mean, acting like this? You aren't a cheater, are you, honey? We're going to have a good time—nice ill party."

A lighted cigarette dangling from
the corner of his mouth, he drew
her forcibly toward the chaise-longue.

Sudden panic swept over Gay as his caresses grew bolder. She struggled away from him with all
her strength, and not until later
felt the searing burn from his cigarette across the palm of her hand.

She only knew she must get away,
and again she tried to wrench herself free; tried to brace her body
against the wall—

"Try and get away!" Breck was gripping her shoulders under the thin satin. She felt her dress tear.

"Just try it, Baby. See where it gets you!"

Knock, and the waiter entered.

Breck roared, "Get out of here!
Don't you know better than to break in—"

"But you rang, sir. The bell—"

Apologetically, the waiter pointed to the wall button.

Gay instantly understood. In the scuffling, she had pressed against the electric button. Quick-witted,
she seized her opportunity.

"Must fix my hair—dressing room—"

she murmured, and fled
into the hall.

Down a dark flight of stairs,
and out into a night of blackness
and streaming rain.

As if ghosts were at her heels,
she ran wildly across the sidewalk
and down the blocks to the corner
where she stopped, gasping, soaked

A look of surprise came into Breck's face.

to the skin, trembling from head to foot. Her hand, where she had burned it against Breck's cigarette,
felt like red-hot fire.

Then she remembered, and made
a sound that was half laugh, half
sob. She had left her purse and evening coat in the dining room!

What to do! Where to go!
How to get back to her apartment,
and Jean!

A roadster appeared suddenly
out of the downpour and darkness,
slewed up at the corner, rolled
past, then backed up to the curb
where she stood shivering in the diagonal slashing of rain.

For a moment she thought it was Breck—it looked something like his car. But the door opened,
and Wayne Adams' quiet voice
said, "Get in. Where's Breck?"

What's happened?"

"Get in," he repeated impatiently, as Gay hesitated. "This is no time to argue! You're soaking wet."

He leaned forward and hauled
her unceremoniously into the roadster.

"Did you and Breck have a bad
crackup? Noisy? Was there trouble?"

She made no answer. He went on, as though holding his temper
in check. "Tell me what happened. It's very important right now that Breck shouldn't get in any jam. I'd intended to round him up hours ago, but I couldn't get away. Breck's a wild man when he drinks too much. Was he —rough with you?"

There was unexpected sympathy in his tone, and Gay longed to rest her head against his shoulder and cry
like a hurt child.

Instead, she sat stiff and withdrawn in her corner of the car.
But, she told herself, though she thoroughly disliked Wayne Adams,
she had to admit his quiet reserve
of strength, his understanding directness of speech and manner.

"I gather from all you've been telling me," he went on, smilingly,
"that you left Breck, for excellent
reasons, on the spur of the moment. Am I right or—am I right?"

Gay said nothing.

"I'm glad to see you still have most of your clothes! Breck has a playful habit of snatching his girl friend's dress, as a souvenir of a pleasant evening."

Impulsively, Gay broke her

silence. "This cheap little thing doesn't matter! Breck did tear it,
but with the money he's going to give me—"

Wayne's laugh cut her short.

"Oh, I see," he said quickly. "So that's the way it is."

And as the car rounded a corner,
in the light of an arc lamp, he smiled down into her uncompre-
hending eyes a smile of amused
contempt.

Gay's hand, burned by Breck's cigarette, throbbed so painfully for the next few days that she feared
it was infected. As she punched
the club time-clock at eight-thirty Wednesday morning, she felt feverish and irritable. Her heart sank still lower when Jimmy, the bell-boy, told her that Mr.
Carberry, the assistant manager,
wanted to see her in his office.

"Maybe I'm going to be fired,"
Gay thought, nervously.

But Mr. Carberry merely wanted to inform her of a change in working hours. They were trying a new system in the coat room—
alternate weeks of day and night duty. Jean Briggs had already been notified, by telephone.

"You'd better rest this afternoon," said Mr. Carberry, "and go back on the job around six. Then,
for the rest of the week, you'll be on night shift, only."

Mr. Carberry was a pale young man, with a wisp of black mustache and a slightly self-important manner. Gay listened attentively
while he talked.

"At midnight, you may go for supper to the help's dining room.
Don't be away more than 20 minutes. We fired the last coat room girl because she hung around the halls at night, fooling with bus
boys."

Gay reddened.

"I don't fool with bus boys!"

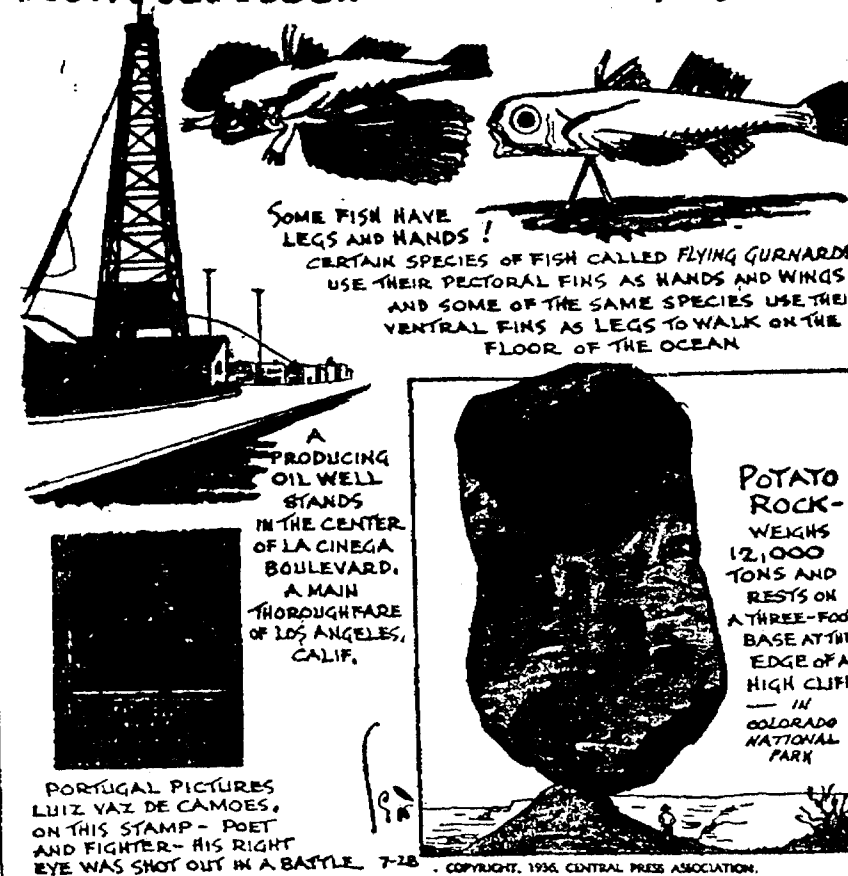

When Mr. Carberry's eyes
twinkled, he looked almost human.
"Reports on your behavior have been excellent. One of our guests told me that you are a very efficient young person."

The telephone on his desk rang,
and he waved Gay out of the office
with all the dignity of a young assistant house manager, who hopes some day to grab his chief's position.

TOO WEAK TO OPEN

RATHER A COMMON cause of hassens across the table, and the breaking down of partner's confidence is employment of too weak
opening bids. Unless 2 1/2 quick tricks are held as a minimum, a hand ordinarily is too weak for an opening suit bid. Two suits of at least 5 cards each is an excuse for making an opening bid on 2 quick tricks, as otherwise it may be found impossible to show both suits. In the latter case, however, at least one of the suits should contain something better than K-Q-X-X-X. One reason for this requirement is discovered
when partner must play no trumps.
Ability to establish one of the suits
bid, or having both suits stopped twice against leads through, become essential. Another reason for strong tops is when partner tries for a slam.

pected, slam hoped". West, 3-N

West, 4-Spades, as a simple shift;
East, 6-Spades.

The opening lead was the 6 of spades, that declarer won with his
8. He was disappointed openly when he viewed dummy. The Q of clubs
was the best chance to fulfill his contract.
The K of clubs was led. Dummy was put in lead with the 10 of spades.
The Ace of clubs was led. Declarer let go his lowest diamond. The 8 of clubs was led, merely as a hope.
Declarer ruffed. The Q of clubs dropped. That insured at least a small slam, perhaps a grand slam might be made. The last trump was pulled for the sixth trick. Dummy's lowest heart was discarded. The hardest part of declarer's work was over.

Declarer led his last diamond.
Dummy's Ace took the trick. The good J and 9 of clubs were led. On them East let go his two lowest hearts. Dummy's last heart was led.
There was an even chance to make a grand slam by finessing the Q of hearts, with a certainty of losing a trick unless the finesse were attempted. The finessing of the Q of hearts lost to the K, but the contract
was safely fulfilled, even if the opening bid was weak.

In a roughly approximate manner,
there are about 4 times as many 6-odd as 5-odd scores; about 8 times
as many 5-odd as 4-odd scores, and about 16 times as many 4-odd as 3-odd scores.

INCOME AND TAXES

FULLY gratifying as the increase in the national income in 1935 to a total of $52,959,000,000, almost within reach of the 1931 figure, is the reduction in disbursements from capital and surplus to the lowest point since the depression began. The excess of $628,000,000 paid out over what was produced, compares with $1,777,000,000 in 1934, $3,198,000,000 in 1933 and $8,817,000,000 in 1932.

In appraising this tremendous reduction of deficit, so to speak, weight must, of course, be given to rising value of inventories through advance of prices, but it accounts for the change only in part. At the rate of improvement being made this year there is prospect that the country may enter 1937 with income produced equaling, if not exceeding, income paid out. The one discordant note in such contemplation is the matter of taxes. Whereas in 1929 the percentage to national income was 12.4, last year it had risen to 19.1 and with the new levies imposed it is bound to rise still higher. The net result is that with an income 65 per cent of what it was in 1929, the actual amount paid in taxes is larger.

The income analysis made by the Commerce Department's division of economic research presents interesting comparisons, particularly those showing employee compensation rising 7 per cent and dividends and interest 2 per cent; employee income receipts 70 per cent as large as 1929 and bondholder and stockholder receipts 65 per cent as large. On separating interest from dividends, however, it is found that while the bondholder is receiving 83 per cent of what he did in 1929 the stockholder is getting less than 47 per cent of what he got six years ago.

Perhaps the two factors of greatest significance are that agriculture's share of the income produced was 9.1 per cent as contrasted to 8.9 per cent in 1929 and that labor received 67 per cent of the income paid out as against 65.6 per cent six years before. At the same time, because of the lessened income paid out, the average income of the full-time employee as compared with $1,466 in the earlier period, was $1,201, representing, however, a recovery of 28 per cent from 1933.

While the income produced is 34 1/2 per cent under that for 1929's total of $81,000,000,000, the number of full-time employees, according to the bureau's figures is only 18 1/2 per cent less. The bureau places the 1928 employed at 34,485,000 and 1935's at 28,094,000, a difference of 6,391,000. Here is opportunity, perhaps, for the statistician to arrive at some demonstrable conclusion regarding the extent of the unemployable problem.

In other words, giving effect to the increase in population and other changing conditions, how many more mobs than the 34,485,000 would have of about a third of their income. Most of the great educational

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

DAKOTA DROUGHT REGIONS

FARGO, N. D.—It is not till you swing out west of the Twin Cities that you can catch the awful significance of the drought. In Illinois and Indiana, the mountains and hills have caught and held the rainfall, thus staving off the devastating heat.

But out beyond Minneapolis, mile after mile rolls by, the hills grow lower and lower, soon the telegraph posts disappear and no more fences can be seen. Everywhere—just miles and miles of flat, hot fields.

In some, sheaves of wheat are stacked, but thinner, shorter and further apart than those in the Central States. The corn, too, is shorter. It looks dusty, hot, brittle. Hardly a tree for miles around. Here and there a small grove breaks the monotony of the terrain, usually near a house.

The wells haven't dried up because of the drought, but many because they are too old and there's been no money to drill new ones. With the wells drying up, the prospect for cattle and livestock is bad.

A fire rages along the road side. The grass is so hot anything will set it off. Often a spark from a passing locomotive will transform a whole field of wheat into a charred, smoking, black patch on the landscape.

A woman and a small girl are trying to stamp this fire out with burlap bags. With a couple of pails of precious water from my car, most of the blaze is extinguished. The woman is grateful and asks me into the house for a glass of water.

Her husband, John Moen, is blind and paralyzed. She tends the farm, does the planting and the harvesting, while her 10-year-old daughter, Eleanor, takes care of the horses and cows. They have no boys. Mrs. Moen was born and raised on a farm in Kansas about forty-five years ago, then came to the Dakotas with her husband. They have been living in North Dakota for twenty years, and for the last ten years Mrs. Moen has been managing the farm. She votes regularly.

charitable and social foundations also are dependent upon invested funds. Then there are the people who are able to carry insurance partly because of the mutual "dividends" returned by the company. The earning of these dividends is becoming more difficult.

Savings banks have much of the public money and everybody knows how the rates have fallen, even if all do not know the reason. Estates that are in trust specifying "legal" securities also are having great difficulty maintaining what a few years ago would be considered only a nominal income. There are plenty of other people who in one way or another are dependent upon interest on what is really borrowed money, so that low interest rates for government borrowing are not an unmixed blessing, especially as taxes keep rising.

He had pushed his chair back, now, and was standing beside her. She evaded his kisses.

But Breck was no longer so good-natured. He swept her into his arms and held her breathlessly close. His whispered words made her flush, angrily, and she strained away from him, disillusioned, but not at all frightened. As she had told Jean, she felt perfectly capable of taking care of herself. No part of her responded now to Breck Carter.

A look of surprise came into Breck's face. "I don't get you, Gay. I'm not used to this 'innocent' line. What do you mean, acting like this? You aren't a cheater, are you, honey? We're going to have a good time—nice it'll party!"

A lighted cigarette dangling from the corner of his mouth, he drew her forcibly toward the chaise-longue.

Sudden panic swept over Gay as his caresses grew bolder. She struggled away from him with all her strength, and not until later felt the searing burn from his cigarette across the palm of her hand. She only knew she must get away, and again she tried to wrench herself free; tried to brace her body against the wall—

"Try and get away!" Breck was gripping her shoulders under the thin satin. She felt her dress tear. "Just try it, Baby. See where it gets you!"

A knock, and the waiter entered. Breck roared, "Get out of here! Don't you know better than to break in—"

"But you rang, sir. The bell—" Apologetically, the waiter pointed to the wall button.

Gay instantly understood. In the scuffling, she had pressed against the electric button. Quick-witted, she seized her opportunity.

"Must fix my hair—dressing room," she murmured, and fled into the hall.

Down a dark flight of stairs, and out into a night of blackness and streaming rain.

As if ghosts were at her heels, she ran wildly across the sidewalk and down the block to the corner. There she stopped, gasping, soaked to the skin, trembling from head to foot. Her hand, where she had burned it against Breck's cigarette, felt like red-hot fire.

A look of surprise came into Breck's face.

Then she remembered, and made a sound that was half laugh, half sob. She had left her purse and evening coat in the dining room!

What to do! Where to go! How to get back to her apartment, and Jean!

A roadster appeared suddenly out of the downpour and darkness, slowed up at the corner, rolled past, then backed up to the curb where she stood shivering in the diagonal slashing of rain.

For a moment she thought it was Breck—it looked something like his car. But the door opened, and Wayne Adams' quiet voice said, "Get in. Where's Breck?"

"Get in," he repeated impatiently, as Gay hesitated. "This is no time to argue! You're soaking wet."

He leaned forward and hauled her unceremoniously into the roadster.

"Did you and Breck have a bad crackup? Noisy? Was there trouble?"

She made no answer. He went on, as though holding his temper in check. "Tell me what happened. It's very important right now that Breck shouldn't get in any jam. I'd intended to round him up hours ago, but I couldn't get away. Breck's a wild man when he drinks too much. Was he—er—rough with you?" There was unexpected sympathy in his tone, and Gay longed to rest her head against his shoulder and cry like a hurt child.

Just then, she sat stiff and withdrawn in her corner of the car. But, she told herself, though she thoroughly disliked Wayne Adams, she had to admit his quiet reserve of strength, his understanding directness of speech and manner.

"I gather from all you've been telling me," he went on, smiling, "that you left Breck, for excellent reasons, on the spur of the moment. Am I right or am I right?"

Gay said nothing. "I'm glad to see you still have most of your clothes! Breck has a playful habit of snatching his girl friend's dress, as a souvenir of a pleasant evening."

Impulsively, Gay broke her silence. "This cheap little thing to foot. Her hand, where she had burned it against Breck's cigarette, felt like red-hot fire."

Wayne's laugh cut her short. "Oh, I see," he said quickly. "So that's the way it is."

And as the car rounded a corner, in the light of an arc lamp, he smiled down into her uncomprehending eyes a smile of amused contempt.

Gay's hand, burned by Breck's cigarette, throbbed so painfully for the next few days that she feared it was infected. As she punched the club time-clock at eighty-three Wednesday morning, she felt feverish and irritable. Her heart sank still lower when Jimmy, the bell-boy, told her that Mr. Carberry, the assistant manager, wanted to see her in his office.

"Maybe I'm going to be fired," Gay thought, nervously.

But Mr. Carberry merely wanted to inform her of a change in working hours. They were trying a new system in the coat room—alternate weeks of day and night duty. Jean Briggs had already been notified, by telephone.

"You'd better rest this afternoon," said Mr. Carberry, "and go back on the job around six. Then, for the rest of the week, you'll be on night shift, only."

Mr. Carberry was a pale young man, with a wispy of black mustache and a slightly self-important manner. Gay listened attentively while he talked.

"At midnight, you may go for supper to the help's dining room. Don't be away more than 20 minutes. We fired the last coat room girl because she hung around the halls at night, fooling with bus boys."

Gay reddened. "I don't fool with bus boys!"

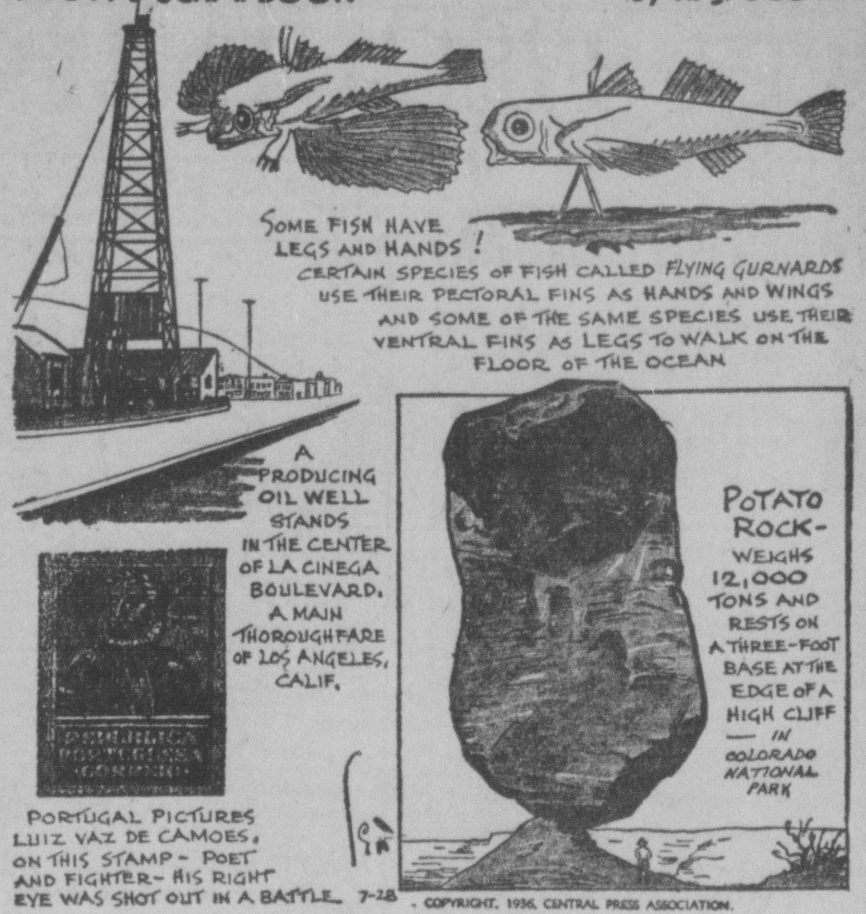

"I don't fool with bus boys!" When Mr. Carberry's eyes twinkled, he looked almost human. "Reports on your behavior have been excellent. One of our guests told me that you are a very efficient young person."

The telephone on his desk rang, and he waved Gay out of the office with all the dignity of a young assistant house manager, who hopes some day to grab his chief's position.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

TOO WEAK TO OPEN

RATHER A COMMON cause of dissension across the table, and the breaking down of partner's confidence, is employment of too weak opening bids. Unless 2 1/2 quick tricks are held as a minimum, a hand ordinarily is too weak for an opening suit bid. Two suits of at least 5 cards each is an excuse for making an opening bid on 2 quick tricks, or otherwise it may be found impossible to show both suits. In the latter case, however, at least one of the suits should contain something better than K-Q-X-X-X. One reason for this requirement is discovered when partner must play no trumps. Ability to establish one of the suits bid, or having both suits stopped twice against leads through, become essential. Another reason for strong tops is when partner tries for a slam.

Bidding went: West, 1-Club, when he had better have passed; East, 2-Spades; West, 3-Diamonds; East,

3-Spades, still forcing, as his first overall had announced "game expected, slam hoped"; West, 3-No Trumps; East, 4-Hearts, but showing marked inferiority to the spade suit; West, 4-Spades, as a simple shift; East, 6-Spades.

The opening lead was the 6 of spades, that declarer won with his 8. He was disappointed openly when he viewed dummy. He took the one best chance to fulfill his contract. The K of clubs was led. Dummy was put in lead with the 10 of spades. The Ace of clubs was led. Declarer let go his lowest diamond. The 8 of clubs was led, merely as a hope. Declarer ruffed. The Q of clubs dropped. That insured at least a small slam, perhaps a grand slam might be made. The last trump was pulled for the sixth trick. Dummy's lowest heart was discarded. The hardest part of declarer's work was over.

Declarer led his last diamond, Dummy's Ace took the trick. The good J and 9 of clubs were led. On them East let go his two lowest hearts. Dummy's last heart was led. There was an even chance to make a grand slam by finessing the Q of hearts, with a certainty of losing a trick unless the finesse were attempted. The finessing of the Q of hearts lost to the K, but the contract was safely fulfilled, even if the opening bid was weak.

In a roughly approximate manner, there are about 4 times as many 4-odd as 5-odd scores; about 8 times as many 5-odd as 6-odd scores, and about 16 times as many 6-odd as 7-odd scores.

In increasing numbers housewives are demanding safe, silent refrigeration that has no moving parts.

They are demanding the economy of operation which only Electrolux gas refrigeration can give them. You, too, can profit by the finest method of preserving foods and freezing ice cubes that costs so much less in the long run. LOVE OF COUNTRY TO SPEED JESSE OWENS TO THREE OLYMPIC MARKS

KEY STAR THRILLED BY CHANCE TO RUN

Love of American Team Expects to Give All He Has to Aid Victory

By HENRY McEMORE
OLYMPIC VILLAGE, BERLIN, Germany, July 28.—(UP)—Love of country, something he never knew he really possessed until he left U. S. shores, will drive Jesse Owens to three new world records when American athletes pit their strength, speed and courage against rivals from all nations in the giant Olympic stadium next week.

The streamlined fireball from Ohio told me so today as we talked in his little stucco cottage on Saxony row in Olympic Village.

"I always thought I had run as fast as I could," Jesse said, "until last Friday when I got to Berlin. When we stepped off the train among all those foreigners and saw that big American flag up over the end of the station and that band started playing that Stars and Stripes piece, I knew I could run faster."

Blood Running Around
"You know I never will forget how I felt right then. I could feel my blood sorta running around under my skin and the hair on the back of my neck kinda frizzle up. I don't aim to brag, but they're gonna have a time catching me when that pistol shoots out there before all those folks. I kinda hope one of them foreigners gets out in front of me just to make me really boll down that track. I like to run behind every once in a while just to be able to give my legs the run."

As sounds of the St. Louis Blues drifted in from Frank Wykoff's portable phonograph across the hall, Owens recalled a race this year when "I was last at the fifth hurdle going down the 220 yards. I just said to myself 'you are going to get beat unless you get going,' so I shoved the throttle to the floor and got in by a head."

"What about the broad jump?" I asked him. "Have you done all you can do in that?"

"Now, I don't think so. They are always afraid I'll pull a muscle jumping so they warned me to be careful and take it easy. In the Olympics, they can't blame me for doing my darnedest, so I plan to rare back and let fly all I got."

Jesse revealed he thinks there is little technique in broad jumping and just something coaches like to talk about.

No Jumping Form
"To me there is no such thing as jumping form," he said. "If you can jump, you can jump and that is all there is to it. All I do is just run as fast as I possibly can, yank my legs up under me at the take-off, and try to sail as long as I can."

It is pretty hard to believe, but Jesse was a sick man when he established three new world records and tied another one afternoon at the Big Ten meet last year. He said he fell down a flight of stairs in his fraternity house at Ohio State 10 days previous to the meet, and that when he took the track, he was so sore he could hardly bend his back.

CHILLICOTHE JUNIORS TO FACE MIDDLETOWN

COLUMBUS, July 28.—(UP)—Middletown, the 1935 Ohio American Legion junior baseball champion, was to open a defense of its title in the annual state tournament here today when it met Chillicothe in a second round game.

The defending titlists drew a first round bye and were idle yesterday.

Chillicothe showed considerable strength as it romped to an easy 14 to 2 triumph over Logan. Farney in the box for Chillicothe gave up nine hits, but kept them well scattered.

In the secondary feature today, Louisville was to face Springfield.

Louisville, one of the pretournament favorites, justified its ranking when it gained a 20 to 3 victory in the opening round over Zanesville.

FEEDS GAIN EDGE OVER WEAK 9 OF EAGLE LODGE

Eshelman Feeds had entered the victory side of the softball league standing today following a 2 to 0 victory over the Eagles Monday evening. The game was abbreviated because the Eagles arrived late on the field and because the high wind made play difficult.

The score, 2-0, is of the fifth inning. The Feeds scored eight runs in their half of the sixth, but the game was called before the last out made, thus the score reverts to the last complete inning.

Lloyd Leasure was on the mound for the winners and Pug Fowler for the losers. Raymond Smith and Eddie Watson, Eagle mainstays, did not show up.

OWEN IN RECORD BOOK AS SAINTS MISS SHORTSTOP

COLUMBUS, July 28.—(UP)—Arnold (Mickey) Owen, 19-year-old rookie star of the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association, today held a position unique in the league's history.

Owen, playing only his second year of professional ball, was recently chosen the outstanding catcher in the Association and has been among the leading five hitters in the league all season. However, he waited until yesterday to jump into the record books.

Because of the erratic work of Lou Bush in a double-header with Kansas City Sunday, Manager Burt Shotton sent Owen to shortstop yesterday against St. Paul and he established a record in his first game at the post.

The youngster did not have a fielding chance throughout the nine innings.

American Association records fail to reveal a similar instance for the 35 years of the circuit's existence. The only parallel case in the record books of the Association was when Leo Durocher, now with the St. Louis Cardinals, had but one chance, a putout, in a 14 inning game May 10, 1927. The chance came in the seventh inning of the contest.

The record of the major leagues reveal that George Davis of Cleveland, and Roger Peckinpaugh of Washington, played through 10 inning games at shortstop without a fielding chance. Davis performed the feat in 1922 and Peckinpaugh a year later.

FIGHT FOR THIRD SPOT IN A.A. IS INTERESTING

BY UNITED PRESS
The firm hold Milwaukee and St. Paul have laid on first and second positions in the American association left Kansas City and Minneapolis, the league's other western teams, to battle from a tie today for third place.

Taking advantage of a rain enforced idleness in the scheduled Miller-Mud Hen game at Toledo, Kansas City defeated the Indianapolis Indians 2 to 1 and climbed in to an all-even place with the Millers Moncrief of the Blues out-pitched Toledo's Trout to win.

At Louisville, the leading Milwaukee Brewers opened a series with the Colonels by trouncing them 7 to 5 while each team used three hurlers.

The St. Paul Saints waded into Columbus for a total of 22 hits off three pitchers, and after the slugging spree counted 16 runs, compared with the Birds' nine. Steinbacher led the onslaught, banging out a hit five times out of six times at bat. Four other homers were hit as Winsett or the Birds made his 37th of the season.

No Resources Session

Only a few persons were present in Memorial Hall Monday evening when a meeting was scheduled to organize a Natural Resources Council for the county. The state department of conservation, sponsoring meetings in every county in Ohio, failed to send a representative so there was no meeting. Clarence Francis, county conservation officer, said another meeting might be arranged later.

Golf Matches Played

Golf matches are being played at the Pickaway Country Club with the championship at stake. One of the major upsets so far has been the elimination of Dewey C. Black, 1934 champion and a semi-finalist last year, by John Eshelman by the lopsided score of 6 up and 5 to go. Charles T. Gilmore went to the 19th hole to turn back the threat of Frank Marion, who tied up the match on the 18th—Paul Adkins, 1931 champion, advanced to the second round by edging Dr. G. D. Phillips 2 up and 1 to go. C. R. Barnhart, who smacks them straight down the middle, took Willis Liston in an interesting 4 up and 2 to go match.

Gomer Jones Chosen

"It's pleasing news to know that Gomer Jones, Ohio State's all-America center last year, will start at the pivot post for the collegiate all-stars against the Detroit Tigers, pro titlists, Sept. 1. Jones edged Rennebohm, Minnesota star, by 3383 votes in a nation-wide poll. Other Ohio states to make the squad are Karcher, Heekin, Rees and Pincura. Not so bad for one school."

Ashville is Victor

Ashville's baseball team, with Sug Pettibone pitching, defeated New Holland Sunday in a game for county title. The score was 5 to 3—New Holland won an earlier game.

GOTHAM READY TO ENJOY HUGE FIGHT PROGRAM

NEW YORK, July 28.—(UP)—Topped by the newly-signed heavyweight title bout between Champion James J. Braddock and Max Schmeling, a meaty boxing menu will be served New York boxing fans during the next two months.

Before Jersey Jim and the German challenger meet in a 15-round encounter in Long Island City bowl in late September fistic appetites will have been whetted by two engagements—Joe Louis' comeback bout, against former heavyweight champion Jack Sharkey or Boston at Yankee stadium on August 18, and a title bout between Lightweight Champion Tony Canzoneri and Lou Ambers.

The Canzoneri-Ambers bout, as now scheduled, would be staged in the Long Island bowl August 6 but Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston was to ask the State Boxing commission today to authorize a new date in the last week of August.

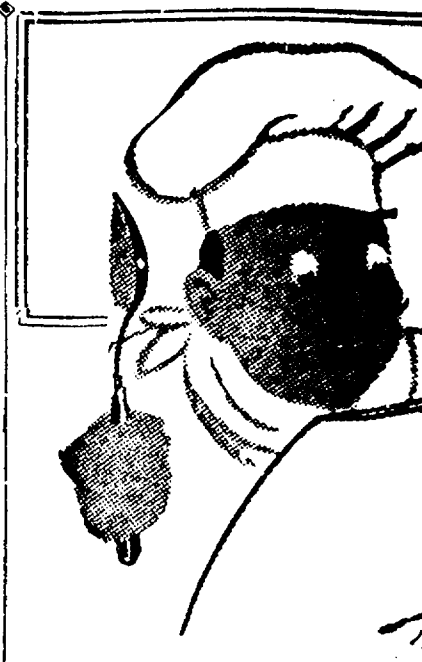

Schmeling, who catapulted into the No. 1 challenger's position by his sensational victory over Joe Louis, sails from Germany aboard the liner Europa on August 6 to begin training for his bout with Braddock, in which he hopes to be the first ex-champion ever to regain the heavyweight title. Braddock is already in training at Loch Sheldrake, N. Y. Schmeling, according to Joe Jacobs, probably will train at Speculator, N. Y.

LOVE OF COUNTRY TO SPEED JESSE OWENS TO THREE OLYMPIC MARKS

BUCKEYE STAR "THRILLED" BY CHANCE TO RUN

Ace of American Team Expects to Give All He Has to Aid Victory

By HENRY McEMORE

OLYMPIC VILLAGE, BERLIN, Germany, July 28.—(UP)—Love of country, something he never knew he really possessed until he left U. S. shores, will drive Jesse Owens to three new world records when American athletes pit their strength, speed and courage against rivals from all nations in the giant Olympic stadium next week.

The streamlined fireball from Ohio told me so today as we talked in his little stucco cottage on Saxony row in Olympic Village.

"I always thought I had run as fast as I could," Jesse said, "until last Friday when I got to Berlin. When we stepped off the train among all those foreigners and saw that big American flag up over the end of the station and that band started playing that Stars and Stripes piece, I knew I could run faster."

Blood Running Around

"You know I never will forget how I felt right then. I could feel my blood sorta running around under my skin and the hair on the back of my neck kinda frizzle up. I don't aim to brag, but they're gonna have a time catching me when that pistol shoots out there before all those folks. I kinda hope one of them foreigners gets out in front of me just to make me really boil down that track. I like to run behind every once in a while just to be able to give my legs the gun."

As sounds of the St. Louis Blues drifted in from Frank Wykoff's portable phonograph across the hall, Owens recalled a race this year when "I was last at the fifth hurdle going down the 220 yards. I just said to myself 'you are going to get beat unless you get going,' so I shoved the throttle to the floor and got in by a head."

"What about the broad jump?" I asked him. "Have you done all you can do in that?"

"Nav, I don't think so. They are always afraid I'll pull a muscle jumping so they warned me to be careful and take it easy. In the Olympics, they can't blame me for doing my darnedest, so I plan to race back and let fly all I got."

Jesse revealed he thinks there is little technique in broad jumping and just something coaches like to talk about.

No Jumping Form

"To me there is no such thing as jumping form," he said. "If you can jump, you can jump and that is all there is to it. All I do is just run as fast as I possibly can, yank my legs up under me at the take-off, and try to sail as long as I can."

It is pretty hard to believe, but Jesse was a sick man when he established three new world records and tied another one afternoon at the Big Ten meet last year. He said he fell down a flight of stairs in his fraternity house at Ohio State 10 days previous to the meet, and that when he took the track, he was so sore he could hardly bend his back.

CHILICOTHE JUNIORS TO FACE MIDDLETOWN

COLUMBUS, July 28.—(UP)—Middletown, the 1935 Ohio American Legion junior baseball champion, was to open a defense of its title in the annual state tournament here today when it met Chillicothe in a second round game.

The defending titlists drew a first round bye and were idle yesterday.

Chillicothe showed considerable strength as it romped to an easy 14 to 2 triumph over Logan. Farney in the box for Chillicothe gave up nine hits, but kept them well scattered.

In the secondary feature today, Louisville was to face Springfield. Louisville, one of the pretournament favorites, justified its ranking when it gained a 20 to 3 victory in the opening round over Zanesville.

FEEDS GAIN EDGE OVER WEAK 9 OF EAGLE LODGE

Eshelman Feeds had entered the victory side of the softball league standing today following a 2 to 0 victory over the Eagles Monday evening. The game was abbreviated because the Eagles arrived late on the field and because the high wind made play difficult.

The score, 2-0, is of the fifth inning. The Feeds scored eight runs in their half of the sixth, but the game was called before the last out made, thus the score reverts to the last complete inning.

Lloyd Leasure was on the mound for the winners and Pug Fowler for the losers. Raymond Smith and Eddie Watson, Eagle mainstays, did not show up.

Tonight Cities Oils and Eagles meet.

OWEN IN RECORD BOOK AS SAINTS MISS SHORTSTOP

COLUMBUS, July 28.—(UP)—Arnold (Mickey) Owen, 19-year-old rookie star of the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association, today held a position unique in the league's history.

Owen, playing only his second year of professional ball, was recently chosen the outstanding catcher in the Association and has been among the leading five hitters in the league all season. However, he waited until yesterday to jump into the record books.

Because of the erratic work of Lou Bush in a double-header with Kansas City Sunday, Manager Bert Shotton sent Owen to shortstop yesterday against St. Paul and he established a record in his first game at the post.

The youngster did not have a fielding chance throughout the nine innings.

American Association records fail to reveal a similar instance for the 35 years of the circuit's existence. The only parallel case in the record books of the Association was when Leo Durocher, now with the St. Louis Cardinals, had but one chance, a putout, in a 14 inning game May 10, 1927. The chance came in the seventh inning of the contest.

The record of the major leagues reveal that George Davis of Cleveland, and Roger Peckinpaugh of Washington, played through 10 inning games at shortstop without a fielding chance. Davis performed the feat in 1922 and Peckinpaugh a year later.

FIGHT FOR THIRD SPOT IN A.A. IS INTERESTING

BY UNITED PRESS
The firm hold Milwaukee and St. Paul have laid on first and second positions in the American association left Kansas City and Minneapolis, the league's other western teams, to battle from a tie today for third place.

Taking advantage of a rain enforced idleness in the scheduled Miller-Mud Hen game at Toledo, Kansas City defeated the Indianapolis Indians 2 to 1 and climbed in to an all-even place with the Millers Moncrief of the Blues out-pitched Toledo's Trout to win.

At Louisville, the leading Milwaukee Brewers opened a series with the Colonels by trouncing them 7 to 5 while each team used three hurlers.

The St. Paul Saints waded into Columbus for a total of 22 hits off three pitchers, and after the slugging spree counted 16 runs, compared with the Birds' nine. Steinbacher led the onslaught, banging out a hit five times out of six times at bat. Four other homers were hit as Winsett of the Birds made his 37th of the season.

HORTON SMITH, BYRON NELSON TIE IN CANADA

VICTORIA, B. C., July 29.—(UP)—Horton Smith, Chicago veteran, and Byron Nelson, Metropolitan Open champion from Ridgewood, N. J., shared the lead at the end of the first 18 holes of the $3,000 Victoria Open Golf tournament today.

COUNCIL ASKS WATER COMPANY TO INSTALL FIVE NEW FIRE HYDRANTS

EXTENSIONS ON THREE STREETS TO BE SOUGHT

Residents of Pickaway Street, South of Town, Request Water Service

Council adopted a resolution Monday night requesting the Ohio Water Service Co. to make extensions on Seyfert avenue, Montclair avenue and Half avenue. These extensions will include installation of five fire hydrants, two on Montclair avenue, two on Half avenue, and one on Seyfert avenue.

Plans for the extensions were worked out by council and water company officials several weeks ago. The company requested a resolution be passed by council.

Thirteen residents of S. Pickaway street, south of Town street, and on Third avenue presented a petition to council Monday night asking water service.

The petition explained they did not have adequate fire protection, wells in the district have been low and there is a danger of typhoid because of weather conditions. At the present time 14 families are obtaining their water supply for eight wells. Councilmen referred the petition to the service committee.

Those who signed the petition were Mrs. George Bond, Charles M. Garner, William A. Winner, John B. Hunt, Edward Amann, Fred Moore, Herbert Haddock, Mrs. Florence McAbee, John Reid, Donald E. Rader, Frank Wilson, Howard Butler, and Lee A. Smith.

Councilman Frank Marion, reported to councilmen a small water line should be installed in Fairview avenue. Residents of Fairview avenue recently filed a petition with council for water service.

Wheeling Struck First

Storm winds struck first near Wheeling and Follansbee, W. Va., swept through a corner of Ohio and at Brownsville, Pa., at their greatest force, caused nearly $400,000 damage. Wheeling, Follansbee, Brownsville, Uniontown, Snook and Conellsville, Pa., were isolated temporarily when power and communication lines blew away.

Buildings were unroofed, highways and streets littered with trees and telephone lines, and dozens of rivulets flooded by heavy rain. The wind was estimated at places at 70 miles an hour velocity.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 28—

(UP)—A tropical storm of the type that sometimes lays large sections of the gulf coast, blew itself out over the marshlands south of New Orleans today after alarming Louisiana for 24 hours.

Oil derricks, telephone wires and small trees fell before the wind's 36-mile-an-hour force, but damage otherwise was slight.

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 28—

(UP)—Heavy rains on the California-Arizona border added washed out rail lines today to the damage of a 36-hour storm that has killed three persons.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 28—

(UP)—Seating heat in much of the Kansas and Missouri areas fled today before a northwestern gale that brought slight damage in scattered sections.

Twenty-seven days here without rain came to an end with the storm last night. The wind at times reached hurricane proportions, and airport dispatches said a 5-minute period of 41-mile-an-hour wind was recorded.

Parts of drought-stricken Kansas reposed in rains that brought down temperatures and promised to aid pastures. Corn was past help. Minor damage was reported. Fires came with the high wind in Leavenworth, Kans. A grain elevator burned while a light rain fell following the windstorm.

THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING WHEN DRIVING AND WALKING

Every living creature is supposed to have some purpose in Nature's plan, but the road hog must have been a zoological error.

The optimistic driver believes in taking a chance. The pessimist has a sadder life but a longer one.

The person who always drives at a reasonable rate of speed saves gasoline, trouble, money and human life.

The proper place for an antique is in the home. A car, like a dollar bill, should be retired from circulation before it is down to the last shred.

Note this slight difference between a driver's license and a hunting license. There is no open season for pedestrians.

Every year hundreds of motorists crash into the sides of moving trains. In no instance has the railroad been put out of business.

Be tolerant with the pedestrian. He has his faults but they are not crimes punishable by death.

A minute saved at the cost of an accident is no bargain. One little error in judgment has caused a lot of grief. Alcohol is all right in the radiator, but not in the operator.

Persons seeking publicity should spend Sunday passing other cars on hills and curves. There is no easier way to get your name in the Monday casualty list.

Better too much vigilance than a lifetime of remorse.

An old-timer is one who remembers when "death row" in a story referred to prison cells, not to a highway.

Residents of Pickaway Street, South of Town, Request Water Service

Council adopted a resolution Monday night requesting the Ohio Water Service Co. to make extensions on Seyfert avenue, Montclair avenue and Half avenue. These extensions will include installation of five fire hydrants, two on Montclair avenue, two on Half avenue, and one on Seyfert avenue.

Plans for the extensions were worked out by council and water company officials several weeks ago. The company requested a resolution be passed by council.

Thirteen residents of S. Pickaway street, south of Town street, and on Third avenue presented a petition to council Monday night asking water service.

The petition explained they did not have adequate fire protection, wells in the district have been low and there is a danger of typhoid because of weather conditions. At the present time 14 families are obtaining their water supply for eight wells. Councilmen referred the petition to the service committee.

Those who signed the petition were Mrs. George Bond, Charles M. Garner, William A. Winner, John B. Hunt, Edward Amann, Fred Moore, Herbert Haddock, Mrs. Florence McAbee, John Reid, Donald E. Rader, Frank Wilson, Howard Butler, and Lee A. Smith.

Councilman Frank Marion, reported to councilmen a small water line should be installed in Fairview avenue. Residents of Fairview avenue recently filed a petition with council for water service.

Wheeling Struck First

Storm winds struck first near Wheeling and Follansbee, W. Va., swept through a corner of Ohio and at Brownsville, Pa., at their greatest force, caused nearly $400,000 damage. Wheeling, Follansbee, Brownsville, Uniontown, Smock and Conneville, Pa., were isolated temporarily when power and communication lines blew away.

Buildings were unroofed, highways and streets littered with trees and telephone lines, and dozens of rivulets flooded by heavy rain. The wind was estimated at places at 70 miles an hour velocity.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 28—

(UP)—A tropical storm of the type that sometimes lays large sections of the gulf coast, blew itself out over the marshlands south of New Orleans today after alarming Louisiana for 24 hours.

Oil derricks, telephone wires and small trees fell before the wind's 36-mile-an-hour force, but damage otherwise was slight.

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 28—

(UP)—Heavy rains on the California-Arizona border added washed out rail lines today to the damage of a 36-hour storm that has killed three persons.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 28—

(UP)—Searing heat in much of the Kansas and Missouri areas fled today before a northwestern gale that brought slight damage in scattered sections.

Twenty-seven days here without rain came to an end with the storm last night. The wind at times reached hurricane proportions, and airport dispatches said a 5-minute period of 41-mile-an-hour wind was recorded.

Parts of drought-stricken Kansas reposed in rains that brought down temperatures and promised to aid pastures. Corn was past help. Minor damage was reported.

Fires came with the high wind in Leavenworth, Kans. A grain elevator burned while a light rain fell following the windstorm.

INSURGENTS ASK SUPPLIES FROM OTHER NATIONS

Ready to Evacuate

Third Assistant Secretary Eric C. Wendelin, in charge of the embassy, reported he was ready to begin evacuation immediately on assurance from the Spanish government that the way is clear to a Mediterranean port.

A report was expected momentarily from Valencia, where a train which left Madrid yesterday is due. If this train gets through, as expected, Americans will board another and proceed under heavy government guard, Wendelin said.

The U. S. cruiser Quincy was steaming up the Spanish coast with orders to await at Valencia or any other port to which Americans are evacuated, to take them out of the revolt-torn republic. Virtually all other Americans already have left Spain.
